Full description

The Belgian company Roseline d'Oreye, created in 2021, is specialised in the design and manufacturing of curated silk, cashmere, and leather luxury accessories. Artistically trained, Roseline d'Oreye is a talented illustrator who revives the famous silk scarves in order to create colorful, dynamic and meaningful compositions. Each accompanied by a poetic and sensible story or legend, her products are wearable works of art. The company is present with a boutique in the center of the Royal Gallery of Saint-Hubert in Brussels, Europe's oldest shopping arcade.

Upon request from the clients, the company can create personalized silk scarves designs linked to their company's image.

The company is also manufacturing leather belts, sleeping masks, bracelets, silk pockets, and bandanas.

The company is looking to develop its brand internationally in the following target countries: France (esp. South of France; ski resorts), Germany, Switzerland, Japan, the United Kingdom (London), the USA (especially New York, California, Florida).

The company looking for partnerships of different types:

- franchisees in these markets offering the trademark under a simplified franchise agreement;
- partners for whom it could work as subcontractor for the manufacturing of silk scarves designed under personalized requirements, for example linked to a company's image;
- niche luxury boutiques to sell their products;
- investment agreements offering shares of the company for sales.

Advantages and innovations

The company combines luxury curated silk with art. The scarves are accompanied by a poetic and sensible story or legend, positioning the products as wearable works of art.

The designer is an all-round artist who also works under request to please, whatever demands from the clients for personalised products.
